Course Description

This course looks at historical and contemporary population growth and change to explain the distribution of people with special focus on spatial patterns and variations. We will examine several critical issues including but not limited to migration patterns and streams; demographic shifts; how age, race and gender affect demographic processes; and social theories to explain population distribution and demographic composition at various geographic scales. In addition to weekly discussions, you will get hands-on experience learning how to download population data available through various census and vital statistics websites, compute measures of population growth and change, and present these results and analyses in formal scientific reports.

This course can be applied to either Group B or C of the Pluralism and Diversity requirements, or Stage 3B (non-W) of the GER.

Course Evaluation

It is mandatory that you attend lecture and complete the assignments for this course. I take attendance via quizzes given in class every week and I follow the Hunter College Attendance Policy (<http://catalog.hunter.cuny.edu/>). I will deduct two points from your final grade for every additional session missed beyond the two sessions (six hours) allowed. It is imperative that you attend class since I will cover information not found in the textbook during lecture and assignment sessions. Class lecture slides will not be posted in Blackboard. If you miss class then it is your responsibility to get the notes from a fellow classmate and to complete any readings and assignments given for that day.

The breakdown of your final grade is as follows:

Required Work	Value
Assignments	40%
Group Project	20%
Midterm Exam	20%
Final Exam	20%

Only students who have satisfied the attendance requirements, completed all assignments, and taken the final exam are eligible for the Credit/No Credit (CR/NC) option. The form can be submitted for consideration up to 15 minutes prior to the start of the final exam. Forms will not be accepted once the exam begins.

INC will only be given for this course in extreme circumstances. In order to receive an INC you must notify me with 78 hours of the scheduled final exam and make arrangements with me to complete a Contract to Resolve an Incomplete Grade in which we will establish a deadline for completing all missing paperwork or taking a missed examination. This must be completed prior to final grade submissions.

No extra credit will be offered for this course.

Course Objectives

This course will teach you how to do the following:

- Apply quantitative and qualitative approaches to explore questions concerning population growth and change to develop an understanding of how and why people live where they live.
- Compare and analyze census geographies, and examine the political impacts of geographic patterns on reapportionment.
- Place local, regional, and global events into perspective with population growth and migration patterns.
- Explore the relationship between population growth and development; immigration and internal migration; the effects of age, race, and gender on demographic processes; and how and why these processes vary around the world by calculating, interpreting, and analyzing key geographical measures, including rates of population change, indices of concentration, segregation and diversity, demographic characteristics, vital statistics, and population momentum.

Student Learning Outcomes

By the end of this course, students will be able to:

- Identify and explain the key concepts and methods of Population Geography, and how they relate to the cultural and economic shifts contributing to population distribution, growth and change.
- Access, manipulate, and professionally present data from the U.S. Census Bureau, the Population Reference Bureau, and the National Center for Vital Statistics in Excel.
- Explain and critique demographic growth and change.
- Identify demographic data and explain their limitations while providing clear and convincing unbiased interpretations of data results.
- Display the basic skills of using Excel.
- Write clear and convincing unbiased scientific reports.

Assignments

Throughout the semester you will complete a series of assignments that are designed to teach you how to download, organize, present, and write about demographic data. These assignments are worth 40% of your final grade. All assignments must be submitted through Blackboard. I will deduct one point for each day an assignment is late (including weekends) and will not accept assignments that are more than a week late.

Group Project

For your group project, you will bring together the various skills you have learned over the course of the semester together and complete a detailed demographic profile of a county assigned to your group. You will submit final report that is 12 to 15 pages (page count does not include tables, maps, diagrams) in length about your specific county and put together a presentation that shows these measures in formal tables, as well as presents general descriptions of your assigned county. You are free to be creative – include maps, graphics, county logos, text – to teach the rest of the class about your assigned county. Students who do not participate as responsible team members will be graded separately from the group and risk sacrificing 20% of their final grade.

Exams

You will take two exams – a midterm and final exam – during the semester. These exams will test you on concepts and topics covered during lecture and in the course assignments. You can find the exam dates on the course schedule. Each exam is worth 20% of your final grade (40% total).

Classroom policies

1. The computers in the Geography Computer Lab are to be used for Geography course work only.
2. Taking photos of class slides/presentations is prohibited.
3. Cell phones must be silenced prior to laboratory entry.
4. Finally, there is no eating or drinking permitted in the computer lab.

It is your responsibility to make sure your CUNY email address is correct in Blackboard. Bounced emails will not be an acceptable excuse for not being aware of any changes to the course schedule or other communications to the class. Check your email regularly. Please read the course syllabus and check Blackboard for additional information before emailing me with questions regarding the course.
